Opportunities for Cooperation

Sample Pilot Projects

Project 1:

Managing People in Emergencies

- This project, aimed at managers working in the humanitarian operations, will help to establish, manage and develop teams while working during emergency situations.
- The participants considered for this project include the Civil Defence Organizations and Red Crescent Associations from Bangladesh and/or Indonesia as those countries face catastrophic events within their boundaries.
- The expected outcome in the long run is to transform the relief service providers in these countries to better and timely respond to the emerging situations.

Project 2:

Exchange of Practices and Views among Social Assistance Professionals

- This project aims to promote cooperation between the Social Assistance Institutions invited through sharing experiences on their activities regarding social assistance to people living in poverty or jobless as well as about the operations of those actives based on the legislation and organizational structure under which they operate.

Project 3:

Leadership and Entrepreneurship Training for University Students

- The aim of the project is to improve the entrepreneurial and leadership skills of the youth in the OIC MCs to make them more self-confident and proactive in becoming the successful leaders of the future.

Project 4:

Exchange of practices on occupational health and safety

- The aim of the project is to share the experience of similar institutions in the OIC Member Countries. The major outcome of the project would be the establishment of strong partnerships among the similar institutions and construct a platform where they can transfer innovative training methods, share knowledge and experience, and exchange expertise through establishing a strong network of occupational health and safety centres, trainers and trainees.

Project 5:

Strengthening VET through local vocational courses: the experience of ISMEK

- The aim of the project is to share the experience of ISMEK with other Municipalities of Islamic Capitals and Cities. The major outcome of the project would be the establishment of strong partnerships among the similar institutions and construct a platform where they can transfer innovative training methods, share knowledge and experience, and exchange expertise through establishing a strong network of vocational training centres, trainers and trainees.

Way forward for OIC Cities and Capitals under OIC-VET Programme

- OIC Municipalities are likely to gain much from innovation, thus realising projects with respect to OIC Transnational Innovation Projects (OIC-TIPs) which will provide them great opportunities in this respect.
- In this regard, vocational training could focus on areas where OIC Municipalities can share their best practices and learn from each others' experience in areas of common challenge.
- In particular, use of ICTs by the Municipalities may not only change the structure in which municipal services are provided to citizens but reach to a wider community through the enhancement of their operations.
- Cooperation among OIC Municipalities also constitutes a novel practice for OIC-VET Programme due to the variety of cooperation areas given the nature of municipal services throughout the world.
